SANDBLAST! 2007
Sand Sculpture Festival
Saturday, July 21, 9:30 am
Tod's Point

The Greenwich Arts Council's perennially popular SANDBLAST!, sand sculpture festival, will be held once again this summer, when the tide is just right on the broad Greenwich Point beach. The Greenwich Dept. of Parks and Recreation, the Arts Council's longstanding partner in this event, will co-host this year's festival. Paul F. Hopper Architects, corporate sponsor of Sandblast for many years, will be joined again this year by York Construction and Development, of Old Greenwich.

Intended purely for the fun of creativity, and, thanks to McDonalds, all participants will be winners with gift certificates for fries or ice cream. Rock artist and sculptor, Dustin Brown, will also add to the festivities with the creation of his organic, meditative and at times mysterious rock sculpture formations.

The place and time: Tod's Point Saturday, July 21, 9:30 am, (raindate, Sunday, July 22, 10:30 am). For raindate information on July 21, please call the Parks & Recreation Activities HOTLINE at 618-7650.

The Greenwich Arts Council promotes the arts by nurturing artists and building audiences. For more information about this event or other Arts Council activities, call 203-622-3998 or log on to www.greenwicharts.org.

Don't forget the sun block!
